Nonpartisan Sites

- FactCheck.org A project of the Annenberg Public Policy Center of the University of Pennsylvania, the goal of FactCheck.org is to "apply the best practices of both journalism and scholarship, and to increase public knowledge and understanding."
- JustFacts.com The mission of Just Facts is to research and publish verifiable facts about the leading public policy issues of our time. To accomplish this with impartiality and excellence, we abide by Standards of Credibility to determine what constitutes a credible fact and what does not.
- Our vision is to equip individuals throughout the world with facts that empower them to make truly informed decisions. This requires authoritative facts that accurately convey big picture realities, not half-truths or talking points.
- PolitiFact.com A project of the Tampa Bay Times and its partners. It intends to "help you find the truth in politics. . . . We research public statements and rate their accuracy as True, Mostly True, Half True, Mostly False, False and Pants on Fire." In 2009, PolitiFact won the Pulitzer Prize for national reporting.
- ProCon.org ProCon.org is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit public charity. It has no government affiliations. It provides resources for critical thinking in order to educate without bias. It expresses no opinions. ProCon.org researches controversial and important issues and presents them in a balanced, comprehensive, straightforward, and primarily pro-con format
- Snopes.com Snopes attempts to debunk and validate urban legends, Internet rumors and other stories of uncertain origin. It is an independent entity owned by its operators, Barbara and David Mikkelson, who say they receive no funding in any form.
- [The Fact Checker](http://The Fact Checker) A blog from the Washington Post, The Fact Checker checks statements by politicians and political advocacy groups. It regularly doles out Pinocchios based upon politicians' statements.
- TruthOrFiction.com This site says of itself, "Get the truth about rumors, inspirational stories, virus warnings, hoaxes, scams, humorous tales, pleas for help, urban legends, prayer requests, calls to action, and other forwarded emails."
